Mary Willis was a fascinating woman, although her neighbors in Town Line in the early 1860s may not have used the adjective "fascinating." Mary was born in Town Line on May 8, 1838, the daughter of Nathan Willis (1786-1865) and his second wife, Frances Hayden Draper (1804-1887.) She had seventeen siblings and half-siblings with birth years from 1816 to 1852.

Nathan Willis had come to Western New York from Vermont in 1811, bought 248 acres of land from the Holland Land Company along what is now Broadway in Town Line. Employing men from the Buffalo Creek Reservation, which abutted the rear of his property, he cleared the land and farmed the fertile acres. Taking advantage of the abundant supply of wood and natural water power from Cayuga Creek, he dug a millrace, built a sawmill and went into the lumber business. Settlers were flocking in to the region and needed lumber, also, there was a need for lumber to rebuild Buffalo and surrounding area after the devastation of the War of 1812. Willis's business thrived, as well as that of another Vermonter, John Webster (1778-1858) who also settled in Town Line and operated a sawmill along Cayuga Creek. Three of Nathan's sons—John, James and Eugene—operated a steam sawmill in what is now the hamlet of Williston in the Town of Marilla, giving their name to the hamlet.

Nathan Willis was elected Town of Alden supervisor for the years 1849, 1852, 1853 and 1857. He was a founding member of the Methodist Church of West Alden and served as a trustee. Nathan died January 9, 1865 and is buried in Lancaster Rural Cemetery.

The sturdy federal style house he completed in 1828 is still standing at 11337 Broadway. It was occupied by Willises and Websters until 1942. This was the house Mary Willis grew up in and where she lived after her marriage to John Webster (1810-1880), the son of the John Webster above.

Mary would have attended the one-room schoolhouse that stood near the corner of Town Line Road and Broadway; the same schoolhouse in which the vote to secede from the Union is reported to have taken place in 1861. We have no records of where she attended high school. It may have been the Alden Seminary in the village. It is noted that Mary graduated Alfred University in 1859, one of 93 women in a class of 222. Alfred University was founded in 1836. Unusual for the time, the school was co-educational and racially integrated, enrolling the first African American student and two Native American students in the 1850s, becoming the second college in the United States, after Berea College in Kentucky, to do so.

It was at Alfred that Mary Willis developed a strong feeling of sympathy for the Southern slaves. Performances of Uncle Tom's Cabin and other inflammatory anti-slavery propaganda fueled that feeling. The Fugitive Slave Act, a statute passed by Congress in 1850, provided for the seizure and return of runaway slaves who escaped from one state into another. In response, a vast network of people sympathetic to the slaves, helped fugitive slaves escape into free states and into Canada using what is known as the Underground Railroad. Not an actual railroad, but a network of secret routes and safe houses.

Upon her return from Alfred, Mary immediately took part in arranging a "station" on the Underground Railroad in Town Line. It was in an old barn at the rear of the Willis homestead that Mary hid the slaves. Entering a side door over which hung an upside-down white horseshoe, the mark of a station, the slaves were hidden either in the loft or in a shed to the rear until they could be taken to Buffalo, hidden in wagon loads of hay or lumber, to obtain passage to Canada. Bands of "Copperheads," Southern sympathizers, patrolled the roads and fields by night, catching runaway slaves to send back to the south.

Mary Willis married her neighbor, John Webster, in 1862. Twenty-eight years his junior, Mary was his third wife. John had married Lydia Farrington in 1853 in Holland, NY. Lydia died in childbirth in December 1855, leaving a one-year-old daughter, Ella Lavina. John then married Lydia's sister Verona in 1857. She died October 13, 1860. The daughter she bore, Verona D., lived for only a year, dying October 29, 1861. Her son, Samuel Bertis, born 1858, survived her.

Ancestry.com

Mary and John went on to have ten children of their own: Fannie Lois (1863-1939), John Lincoln (1864-1944), William Pitt (1866-1889), Frank Sherman (1868-1912), Daniel Lewis (1868-1912), James Shelden (1871-1913), Charles Leander (1873-1948), Herbert Pride (1875-1954), Mary Bernice (May 1878-Dec 1878) and Welcome Myrtle (1880-1942). Welcome Myrtle was born March 10, 1880 and her father died March 25th, leaving her mother, Mary, with eleven children to raise alone. Step-daughter Ella Lavina had been married in 1874 and was living in Buffalo with her lawyer husband.

John and Mary had lived on the Willis homestead, and Mary continued to live there and farm the land after John died, helped by her sons, who when married, lived nearby. In the last U.S. census before her death she was living with daughter Myrtle, age 30, and odd job laborer Calvin Moore. Calvin, who died in 1931 at the age of 93, had helped Mary's grandson William Webster piece together the story of Mary's Underground Railroad involvement.

Mary Willis Webster died August 10, 1913 and is buried in Lancaster Rural Cemetery with husband John. A fascinating woman, indeed. A college graduate; an Underground Railroad stationmaster; a mother of ten children, plus two stepchildren; and a farmer.

Message from the President

At the Alden Historical Society's Trustee meeting of December 7th, I was given the distinct honor of being elected President of the Board of Trustees for a third term. I appreciate the faith the Board has in me to continue to lead our organization during the coming year. With the help of our Board, we will work towards fulfilling the Mission of the Historical Society; to protect, present and promote the history of the Town of Alden and its people.

We are very grateful for all who made our annual Bake Sale & Fund Appeal a success; from our hard-working group of Trustees and volunteers who donated their time and effort to organize, decorate, bake and staff our building; to everyone who stopped by and made a purchase or monetary donation; and to those who took advantage of an opportunity to tour our building. We hope that everyone had a nice visit. Thank you.

As we close 2017 and look forward to the New Year, I would like to again give special recognition to our officers for their dedication and hard work. Elli DeFilippo has served an important role as Society Vice President. Clarke Burke has been invaluable in his continued role as Society Treasurer. We also thank Jennifer Strong for serving as Secretary over the past year. I look forward to the opportunity to work with this group of officers again in the coming year.

Also, thank you to our new curator, Kris Rogers, for filling a role that had been vacant for too long. Under the tutelage of our archivist and former curator, Karen Muchow, Kris has made great progress with organizing and cataloging our collection, as well as setting up new displays and refreshing others. There is more work to be done, but I am gratified that we are moving forward.

Recognition should also be given to the support the Society receives from the Town of Alden. Town Supervisor Rick Savage and Parks Department Supervisor Andy Sojka have been very responsive to any issues we have encountered with our building and for that, we thank them. We have enjoyed a great relationship with the Town of Alden and the Parks Department and we are very grateful.

I have been privileged to continue serving as the Society's president over the past year. I continue to learn and remain impressed by the dedication of our trustees and volunteers. I hope that we can continue to strengthen the Society's role as a cultural and educational institution within our great community. I thank each and every person, couple, family or business that is a member of our Society. Your support allows us to continue to fulfill our mission. All the best to everyone for 2018.

Christopher Gust, President

Alden Historical Society Annual Meeting, Trustee Election and Daren Wang Presentation

The scrumptious pot luck supper provided a warm and satisfying respite from the cold temperatures on the evening of November 9, when the Alden Historical Society hosted our annual meeting, pot luck supper, and a presentation by former Alden resident and author Daren Wang, at the Community Center. Following the dinner, Society President Christopher Gust conducted the annual meeting by reviewing the society's accomplishments of the past year and inviting officers and committee chairs to share their reports. President Gust and several of the officers/committee chairs expressed their appreciation to the Town of Alden, the society's membership, and the Alden Advertiser for their ongoing support of the Historical Society building and the society's mission. Four trustee positions were up for election. As the current trustees offered to be nominated, and there were no additional nominations from the floor, Conrad Borucki, Clarke Burke, Larry Kocher, and Jennifer Strong, were reelected. The society is grateful to them for their continuing service to the organization.

Town Line Secession Signing

Prior to his talk at the Society's Potluck Dinner & Annual Meeting on November 9th, author Daren Wang stopped at the Society building for a look at our collection. Here, Mr. Wang poses with the Town Line secession (& reunion) desk. The secession of Town Line from the Union in 1861 is an important background for his novel, "The Hidden Light of Northern Fires." The original desk is on display in our Alden Hamlets room.

Our Past Programs

Thanks to Brett Sitzman for presenting our October program, as he spoke about the great fire that consumed the landmark Beanery 25 years ago, on Nov. 17, 1992. Mr. Sitzman, fire chief at the time of the beanery fire, narrated 40 minutes of video footage, shot by the late James Gerber, and shared his recollections of fighting what is considered the longest fire in modern Alden Fire Department history. Brett coordinated the mutual aid fire-fighting efforts of Alden, Crittenden, Darien, Millgrove, and Town Line responders. Trains were halted for a time out of concern that their vibration could cause the structure to collapse. Eventually the train dispatcher resumed train traffic on the seamless track at a speed of 5 mph. Several firemen from the night were also in attendance and shared their experiences.

President Christopher Gust and Vice President Elli DeFilippo

Author Daren Wang spoke during our Annual Meeting/Potluck Dinner on November 9th. Mr. Wang talked about his recently published historical novel, "The Hidden Light of Northern Fires", which takes place during the Civil War in secessionist Town Line, NY with members of the Willis family being principal characters. Daren shared with the audience recollections of his growing up on the Willis property and then learning of the homestead's (and WNY's) rich history in the years leading to and during the Civil War, which inspired him to research and write the novel over a 10-year period. He also read a passage from the book and then took questions from the audience, some of which came from descendants of the Willis family. The evening ended with a book signing.

Western New York historian and re-enactor Tom Schobert was the speaker for our December program as he led a look at legends & myths of the famous Battle of the Alamo. After covering the background events in Mexico and the United States that led to the siege in 1836, Mr. Schobert detailed the battle and its aftermath. He then talked about the Alamo's cultural significance in U.S. History, including the popular Davy Crockett TV series and John Wayne's cinematic version, concluding with a look at current efforts to preserve the Alamo grounds for future generations.

8th Annual Bake Sale/Fund Appeal

We are very grateful for the huge support from our trustees, members, and the community to make this year's sale an outstanding success. This event involved a lot of people, and a ton of preparation, time and hard work. Bake Sale Chairman, Sandy Dussault and all her Special Helpers who had a hand in our success are to be thanked and congratulated. With many hands---our success was guaranteed.

This year we changed the event to a bake sale/fund appeal as we have found some of our supporters are choosing to donate dollars instead of baking goodies. Our bakers were up to the challenge and we were pleased to have many delicious offerings for our visitors. We were very grateful to our bakers as well as our patrons for their help. Exceeding our expectations--- we raised about one third of our annual operating expenses through the sale of baked goods and generous donations from in-town and out of town contributors.

There were many visitors to the building this year...some who had never been in the building. The atmosphere was festive and our docents did a great job of guiding and answering questions. It was great to share our beautiful museum with those visitors and the children seemed to really enjoy the experience.
